Activity 9: Employee Feedback and Listening System

Course C1158 · LO3

Objective

Gather safe, representative employee feedback using complementary methods

Documented real-event basis

The Center for Workplace Mental Health describes organisational resilience through leadership, training, a culture of empowerment, purpose, trust and accountability, supportive work environments, flexibility and access to support. Employee voice is needed to understand whether those conditions are experienced in practice.

Scenario

RiverTech Digital, a fictional hybrid employer, wants quarterly feedback after a wellbeing launch. Employees distrust a survey that collects team, age, disability, free text and email. Managers want raw comments by team.

Primary source

https://workplacementalhealth.org/mental-health-topics/resilience

Training assumptions

• All sample responses and organisational details are fictional.

• Reporting groups must meet a minimum threshold and free text needs disclosure review.

• An independent research administrator is available for confidential interviews.

• Immediate safety disclosures require a defined, transparent escalation route.

Questions

1. Which question requires survey, focus group, interview or service data?

2. What data should not be collected, and what reporting threshold is safe?

3. How will employees understand anonymity, confidentiality and escalation?

4. How will management acknowledge, decide and close the feedback loop?

Expected output

Multi-method listening plan, draft instruments and close-the-loop protocol

Acceptance test

The system collects only decision-relevant data, uses complementary methods, protects small groups and free text, accurately distinguishes anonymity/confidentiality, includes safety escalation and commits to visible response timelines.